President's Message

by John D. Hall

July marks the beginning of a new fiscal year for the Arizona Archaeological and Historical Society (AAHS). In addition to the new fiscal cycle, AAHS held an election in May for several new positions on the Society's Board of Directors. Our fantastic 2020 Nominating Committee scoured the streets and poured through their Rolodex and Outlook contacts to find talented individuals willing to serve on the AAHS Board. A special thank you to Barbara Montgomery, Jim Watson, Fran Maiuri, Sharlot Hart, Cannon Daugherty, Kyle Woodson, Mary Prasciunas, and Eric Klucas who served on this year's Nominating Committee!

I am proud to announce several new members to the AAHS Board of Directors. Starting July 2020, three new members will fill Officer positions, including Rebecca Renteria, who will serve as the new Vice President for Membership, Erica LeClaire, who will serve as the new Communications Officer, and Bill Gillespie, who will serve as the new Treasurer. Three new Members at Large are also joining the Board — Alycia Hayes, Dwight Honyouti, and Stacy Ryan.

Rebecca Renteria is a Senior Research Specialist at the University of Arizona's Laboratory of Tree-Ring Research. Erica LeClaire is a graduate student at the University of Arizona's College of Architecture, Planning, and Landscape Architecture. Bill Gillespie is a retired archaeologist with the Coronado National Forest. Both Bill and Rebecca have served on the Board previously.

Alycia Hayes is an Archeologist and the Chief of Resource Stewardship & Facilities Management at Casa Grande Ruins National Monument. Dwight Honyouti is a Cultural Resource Specialist with the Tribal Historic Preservation Office for the Gila River Indian Community. Stacy Ryan is a Preservation Archaeologist with Archaeology Southwest.

Clearly, our new members bring to the Board impressive resumes, diverse backgrounds, and new skills that will undoubtedly improve our Society! Rebecca, Erica, Bill, Alycia, Dwight, and Stacy... Welcome!

In addition to our wonderful new members, several Board members are continuing their service in new roles. To continually fulfill the obligations of our Society and maintain our many activities, Fran Maiuri and Paul Minnis will serve as Co-Vice Presidents for Activities, and Barbara Montgomery will serve as the new Recording Secretary. We are lucky to have several continuing Board members, including Deil Lundin, Galen McCloskey, Ric Shorrock, Sharlot Hart, and Martin Welker!

Sadly, this also means several people are leaving the Board at the end of June. I want to take this opportunity to extend a big Thank You to Leslie Aragon, Patricia Gilman, Evan Gioni, Pamela Pelletier, and Karen Schollmeyer! Your efforts on the AAHS Board are very much appreciated, and our Society would not have functioned without your hard work, support, and volunteer efforts. We, as a Society, had many advancements and accomplishments over the last year, because of you! Thank you!

Beyond the efforts of the Board members mentioned above, I want to acknowledge the many volunteers who serve the Society in important roles. For example, AAHS has several Standing Committees that provide valuable and necessary functions on the Society's behalf. The individuals who serve on these Committees are rarely acknowledged for the great work they do. Some of these fine folks include Jeffrey Clark (Chair, Finance Committee), Katherine Cerino (Chair, Library Committee and Field Trip Committee), Gayle Hartmann (Society Archivist), Sarah Herr (Chair, Publications Committee), Mike Lindeman (Chair, Research Grants Committee), and Ron Towner (Chair, Awards Committee). Each of these Committees also has a dedicated team of Committee Members that hold periodic meetings and support the Society through their planning and volunteer efforts.

Emilee Mead (Glyphs Editor) and Jerryll Moreno (Kiva Book Review Editor) also deserve much praise for their hard work maintaining the high quality of our publications.

AAHS is also pleased to announce our flagship journal Kiva has two new editors: Alison Rautman and Thomas Rocek (see announcement below). Alison and Thomas will be replacing our previous Kiva editor, Deborah Martin. The Society is grateful for the phenomenal job Deborah Martin did as Kiva editor, bringing many fantastic issues and articles to print. Thank you, Deb!

Finally, I would be remiss if I did not extend a sincere thank you, as well as my utmost gratitude, to the members of the Society. Every single member of AAHS supports our programs through your membership, including the many activities, publications, grants, and awards. From the bottom of my heart, thank you all! I am looking forward to a new fiscal year for AAHS. More good things to come!

SEEKING AAHS FIELD TRIP COMMITTEE MEMBERS

AAHS is looking for a few good people who would be willing to serve on our 2020–2021 Field Trip Committee. Membership involves working with the Committee, which reports to the Vice President for Activities and the Field Trip Coordinator. The Field Trip Committee convenes each spring to brainstorm ideas and compose a schedule. These trips are extremely popular and can be weekend, full-day or half-day trips.

Once the schedule is determined, Committee members are responsible for identifying the appropriate expert and planning and coordinating two field trips each year for our members. You do not need to live in Tucson to be part of the Committee, as trips occur all over the state. We would particularly welcome members from Phoenix, Flagstaff, the Verde Valley, or the Yuma area. If you have questions or are willing to serve, please contact Katherine Cerino, the present Field Trip Coordinator, at kcerino@gmail.com or 520.907.0884. Being on the Committee is an opportunity to actively participate in AAHS, to get to know field trip leaders and AAHS members in a small group, and to have fun visiting sites that are often off the radar of all but a few archaeologists.

WELCOME THE NEW KIVA EDITORS

The Arizona Archaeological and Historical Society is pleased to announce that Kiva: The Journal of Southwestern Anthropology and History will be edited by Drs. Alison Rautman and Thomas R. Rocek for volume years 87–89 (calendar years 2021–2023). Both did their graduate work at the University of Michigan and have co-authored articles on central and southeastern New Mexico.

Dr. Alison Rautman is a Professor of Anthropology at Michigan State University and edited the Society for American Archaeology journal American Antiquity between 2009 and 2012. She conducts research in central New Mexico, examining the social and economic ramifications of the transition from foraging to farming.

Dr. Thomas R. Rocek is Professor of Anthropology at the University of Delaware and edited the Archaeological Papers monograph series for the American Anthropological Association. He is interested in comparative studies of the Neolithic, working in southeastern New Mexico and on research in central Europe.

Distinctive goals of Dr. Rautman and Dr. Rocek – beyond producing excellent, on-time issues – include working to publish papers that share research with approachable words, so the journal can be read by non-archaeologists. They also want to encourage authors to think about audiences outside the Southwest, thereby increasing readership. They look forward to working together and in helping elicit excellence from authors. Please help us welcome Alison and Tom!

AAHS Lecture Series

DOUGLAS B. CRAIG

His many friends and colleagues will greatly miss Douglas B. Craig, who passed away on May 14 at the age of 64 after an extended illness complicated by COVID-19. Doug and his wife, Rebecca Craig, shared their unique, artisan-built home in the desert near Marana, Arizona throughout their 34 years of marriage. Their life together was full of good food, good music, artwork, and dogs!

Doug came to Tucson and Hohokam archaeology following a 1978 Harvard University B.A., received a 1982 Anthropology M.A. from the University of Arizona, and later returned to complete his Ph.D. in 2004. Doug was staff archaeologist at Pima Community College's Centre for Archaeological Field Training in the early 1980s and thereafter was project director for Desert Archaeology, Inc. on the Roosevelt Community Development Study. Joining Northland Research, Inc. in 1993, he served as project director and principal investigator for the rest of his notably productive career.

Doug was the consummate field archaeologist, with expertise in the Phoenix, Tonto, and Tucson Basins and surrounding areas. He had the foresight and on-the-ground skills to design, execute, and bring to full publication a series of projects that advanced central Hohokam issues and cutting edge approaches in regional archaeology. Investigations at the Grewe site near Casa Grande Ruins provided the basis for Doug's dissertation and combined many of the innovative intellectual pathways he so successfully pursued. These interests included the role of architectural visibility in population estimates, households and community development, duration of courtyard groups, Gila River streamflow in relation to population dynamics, agent-based modeling, and Hohokam applications of house society concepts. His creative inquiries into the rise of Hohokam inequality addressed labor estimates for public architecture, prominent courtyard groups' sponsorship of feasting and ballcourt affairs, differential investments in domestic architecture, and the formation of corporate descent groups, property, and wealth.

In addition to his exemplary cultural resources management (CRM) publications, Doug was a prolific academic author and valued collaborator. His individual and co-authored contributions have appeared in Archaeology, American Antiquity, Journal of Field Archaeology, The Kiva, Journal of Arizona Archaeology, Archaeology Southwest, Oxford Handbook of Southwest Archaeology, and numerous chapters in thematic edited volumes from academic presses.

Doug generously supported archaeological organizations and public outreach. He served as preservation advocate and as President of Friends of Casa Grande Ruins National Monument, President of the Arizona Archaeological Council and co-guest editor of two initial issues of its Journal of Arizona

Archaeology, on the Editorial Board of American Archaeology Magazine, in officer and editor positions for Old Pueblo Archaeology, and on the Marana Cultural Preservation Board. Audiences enthusiastically responded to Doug's lively presentations in countless public talks, site visits, and tours.

Suzy Fish will remember her experience as Doug's doctoral advisor when she gained a lasting colleague along with new perspectives on Hohokam archaeology. In a final collaboration at University Indian Ruin, we admiringly recall how field school students eagerly responded to Doug as pied piper, drawing them into the intellectual intricacies and adventure of investigating platform mounds.

Maren Hopkins will remember Doug as a loyal friend, mentor, and colleague who taught her how to be bold, stick to her guns, and own her ideas. Doug was a timeless person, full of energy, joy, and curiosity. His integrity, creativity, and intelligence will never be forgotten.

AAHS ROOTS OF SOUTHWESTERN ARCHAEOLOGY PROJECT

A AHS is delighted to announce that we have recently posted three video interviews (<https://bit.ly/RootsAAHS>). Two are interviews completed in 2019 with John Roney and Gloria Fenner; the third is Part 1 of an interview with Emil Haury recorded in 1988 by Arizona Public Media (interviewer Jeff Reid) and edited this year using sections of the original interview that are still operational.

John R. Roney describes his career as a Bureau of Land Management archaeologist, providing insight into government careers in archaeology. His research and scholarly interests include the early spread of agriculture in the Southwest U.S. and Northwest Mexico, Chacoan roads, and post-Chacoan developments in the greater San Juan Basin of northwestern New Mexico.

Gloria J. Fenner describes an early 1960s excavation in Jerusalem as a young woman. She lived in Dragoon, Arizona and worked at the Amerind Foundation from 1963 to 1979, working primarily on the Casas Grandes report, which included eight volumes. She was then Associate Curator at the Arizona State Museum and Curator of the Collections Repository at the Western Archeological and Conservation Center.

In Part 1, Emil Haury discusses developing the research program at the University of Arizona, collaborating with the Tohono O'odham, and excavations and surveys at Ventana Cave, Batki, and the Grand Canyon among others. Stay tuned for Parts 2 and 3 of this series.

The oral history interviews in the Roots of Southwestern Archaeology series provide videos of senior professional archaeologists (and eventually, we hope, senior avocational archaeologists) to record their experiences, their careers, and their insights. They are fun to watch, and we have learned much from the interviews. We hope you do, too.

AAHS interviews with Paul Fish, Suzanne Fish, Raymond Thompson, James Ayres, and Bunny Fontana and a link to the Society for American Archaeology webpage that has similar interviews with Paul Minnis, Jeff Dean, Curtis Schaafsma, Lynne Sebastian, and Arleyn Simon are also included on the website.

If you have video interviewing or editing skills and would like to help with this project, please contact Fran Maiuri (f.maiuri@gmail.com) or Pat Gilman (pgilman@ou.edu). If you have recommendations of others to interview (we have a list), or if you are interested in volunteering to be interviewed, again, please contact us. We are excited about sharing interviews with colleagues, students, teachers, and the public and archiving the Roots of Southwestern Archaeology Oral Histories at the Arizona State Museum for the future.

We at the Arizona State Museum condemn the hate crimes and social injustices that plague the daily lives of our fellow Americans of African descent and acknowledge the violence and indignity that the Black community has had to endure for more than 400 years. Admitting racism exists, calling it by its name, and understanding the history of its insidious effects, are steps toward eradicating its myriad manifestations.
